My old schoolmate Chandana is with me. We didn't talk much at VBM, but we did accompany each other at Joseph. She is a good reader with a high rank holder. We had many fights and misunderstandings back then. But, in any case, she took good care of me. I tried to avoid her on some days, but I couldn't because she helped me and would be with me after classes were over. I spent a lot of time with her after prici. Those two years with her caused me to ramble on about a variety of subjects. Finally, I did what she said, but "Continuing to say something may result in the same thing happened"…(code word)😄

I'd be the first person to arrive at class. So after each, everybody would come. People like Vanmathi, Neeraja, Sofiya, and Amritha would come to me and start speaking to me.

Our smart class was holding. Despite the fact that I had spent little time with Sharmi. She always had her smiling face with me.☺

I was the only one in class. Anju sat next to me and inquired about my life. I explained that and I was a little nervous. She stated that your religion believes in miracles, so you could pray and be cured one day.☺

Martin gave Dhakshi a small token of his affection. She showed it to us, and it was adorable. They were one of our high school's best couples.

Neeraja and I started spending time in the morning, when she usually started to say "I love you." Neeraja would have spent our Tamil class if no one was with me.

28-4-13 In church, Jeba and Brighta approached me and spoke to me.🥰

SCHOOL MEMORIES…

"United in laughter, support, and friendship, our class girls illuminate the path to unforgettable memories and shared dreams."
